This action is responsive to the communication filed June 24, 2003.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The recitations such as "particularly", "preferably" and "and/or" are indefinite in that it cannot be determined what is being claimed. In claim 12, there is no antecedent basis for "the or a further pipe" in that no pipe is recited in claim 1. In claim 15/13, there is no antecedent basis for "the rod".

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-7 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Torres.

Torres shows a metering disc valve with fixed orifice 17 and movable tapered orifice 27. The actuator stem 29 is read as a pipe. The edge of slot 36 is inherently a stop in the embodiment of Figure 4.

Claims 1-2, 4-10 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chrysler et al.

Chrysler et al show an disc valve with fixed orifice 46 and movable orifice 76, and an actuator including pipe 58, and a seal ring 43. Note also the embodiment of Figures 4-6.

Claims 1 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Taylor.

Taylor shows a similar valve with pressure gauges for measuring flow attached to pipes 94.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), as far as they can be understood, as being unpatentable over Taylor in view of Sejournet.

Taylor shows the claimed valve except for the details of the pressure gauge, which Sejournet show. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have used the Sejournet in the valve of Taylor to measure the pressure thereof.
